

A natural wind slab avalanche beneath a cornice on Henderson Mountain, near Cooke City. It appears to have broken at the new-old interface, 2-3 ft deep and ~300 ft wide. Likely ran overnight on Monday 2/22/21 or early morning Tuesday 2/23/21.

Photo: GNFAC

Advisory Region
Cooke City

Longitude

-109.95W

Latitude

45.05N

Avalanche Details: Natural Wind Slab avalanches around Cooke City

Cooke City, 2021-02-24