

Peak 10102, troots

Date

Sun, 03/07/2021 - 14:00

Activity

Skiing

Old snow was supportable on north aspects, nearly put on ski crampons at higher elevations. One small collapse in trees on approach from potosi. I guess the observation was very strong west-sw wind on ridges without much available to transport, enough to create an interface with the old snow and some small pockets. And did not see any naturals. We did get a good view of the slide path from last year near bell lake from the top of mine peak. I think my partner Aaron has a good pic of that. We did not dig any pits, managed terrain less than 30, run out etc. I have 360 video from summit, if you want see that, can email it.

Region

Out of Advisory Area

Observer Name

Jeff Riedel