

From obs: "Towards the end of the day one of our riders remote triggered a massive avalanche on the North facing slope to the North of Yellow Mule cabin. The 3-4 ft crown propagated around 600 yards wide and slid on near ground facets to the bottom of the slope below depositing a very large debris pile well into the trees."

Photo: K. Retz

Advisory Region

Northern Madison Longitude -111.43W Latitude 45.19N

Avalanche Details: Remotely triggered avalanche on Buck Ridge Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Forecast for Fri Feb 16, 2024

Northern Madison, 2024-02-16