

This column of snow would not fracture in my stability tests. Located on a SE facing slope at 7,700 feet on Bacon Rind, it was moist and cohesive. This is the first, real sign of spring I've seen. Photo: GNFAC

Advisory Region
Southern Madison

Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Forecast for Wed Mar 23, 2011GNFAC Avalanche Forecast for Thu Mar 24, 2011

Southern Madison, 2011-03-22